Mrs. Hall Denies Guilt on Stand

Lane on September 14, 1922? A. I was not.

Q. Did you give this jury a straightforward, truthful and honest account of your movements that night? A. I did.

Mrs. Hall smiled at her brothers as her lawyers conferred for several minutes. At her recognition Willie smiled happily and nudged Henry gleefully with his elbow.

Defense Scores Hard

The defense had scored heavily before Mrs. Hall took the stand. One of the first witnesses was the wife of Henry Carpenter, the defendant awaiting trial, who testified as to her husband's movements prior to and after the murder.

Felix Di Martini, arrested as accessory after voluntarily coming into New Jersey, was recalled for a few questions from Simpson, and Timothy N. Pfeiffer, personal counsel to Mrs. Hall, denied ever hearing of Mrs. Marie Demarest before the present trial got under way.

It was Mrs. Demarest, a state witness, who declared she had seen Henry Stevens of Lavallette in New Brunswick the morning after the murders.

Pfeiffer said he had been retained by Mrs. Hall the latter part of September, 1922, about two weeks after her husband and Mrs. Mills were slain. He explained he then had hired Di Martini in an endeavor to learn who the murderers were.

He denied ever paying Harry Seipel or any body else money in behalf of Mrs. Hall. Simpson wanted to know why the lawyer didn't offer a reward instead of paying $5,000 to Di Martini.

"I think he came nearer to finding the murderers than you have, senator," was the reply.

The witness went on to say his investigation had uncovered a stronger case against another person than the state has against Mrs. Hall, her brothers and Carpenter. The name of this individual was not divulged, but it was recalled that at the start of the trial defense attorneys had questioned James Mills, husband of the slain woman, as though they believed he might know something about the crime.

Had Faith in Stevens

Simpson asked why Pfeiffer had such great faith in the alibi offered by Henry Stevens.

"Newspapermen told me he was not there," answered the witness. "Nobody would believe he was there."

Mrs. Anne E. Bady, stenographer for Ellis Parker, Burlington County detective, produced a transcript of an interview Parker had at Mount Holly with James Mills and his two children, Charlotte and Danny, were questioned.

Mills had said, according to the transcript, that his wife accused him of being jealous of Dr. Hall and that he had seen her love letters a few hours before the tragedy. Among the passages identified by Mrs. Bady was this one:—

"She (Mrs. Mills) said I'd made

Italy's Red Blood Goes To Foreign Lands, Duce Complains

(By U. P.)

—Red corpsed Italians who go into "anaemic foreign countries to stimulate them" do not fit into the plans of Italy's premier-dictator.

Mussolini now is engaged in writing the preface to the emigration commissariat's report covering a two-year period.

"I believe that emigration is an evil because it deprives our race of active elements which go to enrich the red corpuscles of anaemic foreign countries," the premier's preface says.

a hell of a house for her, but she was not that kind of a woman."

Ex-Senator William Florence testified that Mrs. Hall notified the police of her husband's disappearance. After the bodies had been found, he went on, he had made arrangements for the minister's funeral. He denied ever ordering a doctor to examine the woman's body for signs of pregnancy.

Vanderbilt Beaten In Father's Home

Churchill, his former confidential aid, follows:—

"After getting me in a room alone and locking the door without my knowledge, he suddenly had a fit or something; grabbed the fire tongs and before I could get out of the way brought them down across my back and shoulders with such force I thought he had broken my collarbone.

"As I ran for the door he hurled them at me, crashing over things in the room, and again when I found the door locked brought them down wrongside up with the brass antique end in position so that if I had not dodged he would surely have split my head in two.

"It was the most terrible experience I ever have had. He has been in bed for two weeks with a cold in the head."

Disillusioned Father

He describes his father, in one letter, as an old man no longer interested in anything but some chemicals with which he putters and "keeps away from mother's ire."

One of the telegrams, said to have been sent to a close friend, reads:—

"If I survive this crisis I think I shall retire to a monastery. Pray for me."

More than eighty telegrams and letters were filed in Superior Court, Los Angeles, in connection with the suit.

He says of his mother:—

"Every few days while I was ill there with my teeth and jawbone, she would call up and persecute me over the phone, calling me every kind of name and 'hoping' the business would go flat."

Begs Untermeyer's Aid

In another letter he begs Churchill to seek the aid of Samuel Untermeyer on his behalf. He urges Churchill to tell the noted lawyer "everything," including attempts to "adjust his marital situation to their liking" because his family "hate and fear him so much."

He declares that his "kid sister" is being persecuted by other members of the family. "After hearing her pitiful story," he writes, "I agreed to protect and help her."

JUDGE LODER TO DEFEND WARE IN MURDER OF 3

BRIDGETON, N. J., Nov. 27.—

Frank Ware today announced that he had retained former Judge Leroy W. Loder to defend his son, Linwood, charged with shooting to death his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William Gandy, and wounding his sister, Mrs. Madeline Maxwell.

Mrs. Maxwell still is in a critical condition in the Bridgeton Hospital. The case is to go before the grand jury December 28.

Pretty Girl Dancer Drinks Lysol, Is Taken to Bellevue

Pretty Marion Gray, 20, a dancer, who arrived in New York a few days ago from Boston, is in Bellevue Hospital suffering from the effects of lysol, which, according to the police, she drank in an attempt to end her life.

The girl was seen by a man at 68th Street and Park Avenue, who noticed that she was about to collapse. He took her to the Presbyterian Hospital, where she was given first-aid treatment, and then sent to Bellevue.

The dancer was well-dressed, and had three diamond rings.

Vatican Annuls Marconi Marriage

(By U. P.)

The Petit Journal's Rome correspondent wires that the Rota has annulled the marriage of Senator and Mrs. Marconi.

Marconi, famous Italian inventor of the wireless, was married to the Hon. Beatrice O'Brien, daughter of the fourteenth Baron Inchiquin, and, following their divorce and her marriage to another man, Marconi was reported to be engaged to Miss Elizabeth Paynter, 19-year-old daughter of

G. Marconi

Col. George Camborne Paynter of Bosquenna, Cornwall. Marconi's desire for annulment was said to have been caused by the request of his future mother-in-law.

hell and the devil really have their place in any well-rounded view of the eternal issues involved in the case.

Furthermore, that publicity was absolutely inevitable, just as one of these writers has pointed out, is self-evident, and the companion truth that the newspapers which have opened their columns for a discussion of the moral and spiritual issues involved are doing a real service, is also self-evident to any fair and discriminating mind.
